- 6.2 If the personal data in question is special category personal data (also known as 'sensitive personal data'), at least one of the following conditions must be met:
 - a) the data subject has given their explicit consent to the processing of such data for one or more specified purposes (unless the law prohibits them from doing so);

- e) the processing relates to personal data which is manifestly made public by the data subject;
- f) the processing is necessary for the conduct of legal claims or whenever courts are acting in their judicial capacity;

If consent is relied upon as the lawful basis for collecting, holding, and/or processing personal data, the following shall apply:

- 7.1 Consent is a clear indication by the data subject that they agree to the processing of their personal data. Such a clear indication may take the form of a statement or a positive action. Silence, pre-ticked boxes, or inactivity are unlikely to amount to consent.
- 7.2 Where consent is given in a document which includes other matters, the section dealing with consent must be kept clearly separate from such other matters.
- 7.3 Data subjects are free to withdraw consent at any time and it must be made easy for them to do so. If a data subject withdraws consent, their request must be honoured promptly.
- 7.4 If personal data is to be processed for a different purpose that is incompatible with the purpose or purposes for which that personal data was originally collected that was not disclosed to the data subject when they first provided their consent, consent to the new purpose or purposes may need to be obtained from the data subject.

7.5 If special category personal data is processed, the Company shall normally rely on a lawful basis other than explicit consent. If explicit consent is relied upon, the data subject in question must be issued with a suitable privacy notice in order to capture their consent.

7.6 In all cases where consent is relied upon as the lawful basis for collecting, holding, and/or processing personal data, records must be kept of all consents obtained in order to ensure that the Company can demonstrate its compliance with consent requirements.

20.2 Where data subjects have given their consent to the Company to process their personal data in such a manner, or the processing is otherwise required for the performance of a contract between the Company and the data subject, data subjects have the right, under the Data Protection Legislation, to receive a copy of their personal data and to use it for other purposes (namely transmitting it to other data controllers).

20.3 To facilitate the right of data portability, the Company shall make available all applicable personal data to data subjects in the following format:

- 20.4 Where technically feasible, if requested by a data subject, personal data shall be sent directly to the required data controller.
- 20.5 All requests for copies of personal data shall be complied with within one month of the data subject's request. The period can be extended by up to two months in the case of complex or numerous requests. If such additional time is required, the data subject shall be informed.

21. Objections to Personal Data Processing

- 21.1 Data subjects have the right to object to the Company processing their personal data based on legitimate interests, for direct marketing (including profiling), and processing for scientific and/or historical research and statistics purposes.
- 21.2 Where a data subject objects to the Company processing their personal data based on its legitimate interests, the Company shall cease such processing immediately, unless it can be demonstrated that the Company's legitimate grounds for such processing override the data subject's interests, rights, and freedoms, or that the processing is necessary for the conduct of legal claims.
- 21.3 Where a data subject objects to the Company processing their personal data for direct marketing purposes, the Company shall cease such processing promptly.
- 21.4 Where a data subject objects to the Company processing their personal data for scientific and/or historical research and statistics purposes, the data subject must, under the Data Protection Legislation, "demonstrate grounds relating to his or her particular situation". The Company is not required to comply if the research is necessary for the performance of a task carried out for reasons of public interest.

22. Automated Processing, Automated Decision-Making, and Profiling

- 22.1 The Company uses personal data in automated decision-making processes as follows:
- 22.2 When a decision is made which is based solely on automated processing (including profiling) which produces legal effects or significantly affects an individual. The GDPR prohibits Automated Decision-Making (unless certain conditions are met) but not automated processing.
- 22.3 The Company uses personal data for profiling purposes as follows:
 - a) Any form of automated processing of personal data consisting of the use of personal data to evaluate certain personal aspects relating to an individual, in particular to analyse or predict aspects concerning that individual's performance at work, economic situation, health, personal preferences, interests, reliability, behaviour, location or movements. Profiling is an example of automated processing.
- 22.4 The activities outlined in this Part 22 are generally prohibited under the Data Protection Legislation where the resulting decisions have a legal or similarly significant effect on data subjects unless one of the following applies:
 - a) the data subject has given their explicit consent;
 - b) the processing is authorised by law; or

- c) the processing is necessary for the entry into, or performance of, a contract between the Company and the data subject.
- 22.5 If special category personal data is to be processed in this manner, such processing can only be carried out if one of the following applies:
 - a) the data subject has given their explicit consent; or
 - b) the processing is necessary for reasons of substantial public interest.
- 22.6 Where decisions are to be based solely on automated processing (including profiling), data subjects have the right to object, to challenge such decisions, request human intervention, to express their own point of view, and to obtain an explanation of the decision from the Company. Data subjects must be explicitly informed of this right at the first point of contact.
- 22.7 In addition to the above, clear information must be provided to data subjects explaining the logic involved in the decision-making or profiling, and the significance and envisaged consequences of the decision or decisions.
- 22.8 When personal data is used for any form of automated processing, automated decision-making, or profiling, the following shall apply:
 - a) appropriate mathematical or statistical procedures shall be used;
 - b) technical and organisational measures shall be implemented to minimise the risk of errors. If errors occur, such measures must enable them to be easily corrected; and
 - c) all personal data to be processed in this manner shall be secured in order to prevent discriminatory effects arising.
- 23. Direct Marketing
 - 23.1 The Company is subject to certain rules and regulations when marketing its services.
 - 23.2 The prior consent of data subjects is required for electronic direct marketing including email, text messaging, and automated telephone calls subject to the following limited exception:
 - a) The Company may send marketing text messages or emails to a customer provided that that customer's contact details have been obtained in the course of a sale, the marketing relates to similar products or services, and the customer in question has been given the opportunity to opt-out of marketing when their details were first collected and in every subsequent communication from the Company.
 - 23.3 The right to object to direct marketing shall be explicitly offered to data subjects in a clear and intelligible manner and must be kept separate from other information in order to preserve its clarity.
 - 23.4 If a data subject objects to direct marketing, their request must be complied with promptly. A limited amount of personal data may be retained in such circumstances to the extent required to ensure that the data subject's marketing preferences continue to be complied with.

24. Personal Data Collected, Held, and Processed

Full details of the personal data collected, held, and processed by the Company are located in the Company's Data Retention Policy. For details of data retention, please refer to the Company's Data Retention Policy.

25. Transferring Personal Data to a Country Outside the UK

- 25.1 The Company may, from time to time, transfer ('transfer' includes making available remotely) personal data to countries outside of the UK. The Data Protection Legislation restricts such transfers in order to ensure that the level of protection given to data subjects is not compromised.
- 25.2 Personal data may only be transferred to a country outside the UK if one of the following applies:
- a) The UK has issued regulations confirming that the country in question ensures an adequate level of protection (referred to as 'adequacy decisions' or 'adequacy regulations'). Since 1 January 2021, transfers of personal data from the UK to EEA countries have continued to be permitted. Pre-existing EU Commission adequacy decisions in effect as at 31 December 2020 are also recognised, subject to ongoing review by the UK Government.
 - b) Appropriate safeguards are in place including binding corporate rules, standard contractual clauses approved for use in the UK, an approved code of conduct, or an approved certification mechanism. Standard contractual clauses include the International Data Transfer Agreement issued by the Information Commissioner's Office and the International Data Transfer Addendum to the current EU Commission Standard Contractual Clauses (set out in the Annex of Commission Implementing Decision (EU) 2021/914 of 4 June 2021), issued by the Information Commissioner's Office. (Contracts entered into on the basis of the old EU Commission Standard Contractual Clauses prior to 21 September 2022 will continue to provide appropriate safeguards until 21 March 2024.)
 - c) The transfer is made with the informed and explicit consent of the relevant data subject(s).
 - d) The transfer is necessary for one of the other reasons set out in the UK GDPR including the performance of a contract between the data subject and the Company; public interest reasons; for the establishment, exercise, or defence of legal claims; to protect the vital interests of the data subject where the data subject is physically or legally incapable of giving consent; or, in limited circumstances, for the Company's legitimate interests.

26. Data Breach Notification

- 26.1 All personal data breaches must be reported immediately to the Company's Data Protection Officer.
- 26.2 If an employee, agent, contractor, or other party working on behalf of the Company becomes aware of or suspects that a personal data breach has occurred, they must not attempt to investigate it themselves. Any and all evidence relating to the personal data breach in question should be carefully retained.
- 26.3 If a personal data breach occurs and that breach is likely to result in a risk to the rights and freedoms of data subjects (e.g. financial loss, breach of confidentiality, discrimination, reputational damage, or other significant social or economic damage), the Data Protection Officer must ensure that the Information Commissioner's Office is informed of the breach without delay, and in any event, within 72 hours after having become aware of it.

26.4 In the event that a personal data breach is likely to result in a high risk (that is, a higher risk than that described under Part 26.3) to the rights and freedoms of data subjects, the Data Protection Officer must ensure that all affected data subjects are informed of the breach directly and without undue delay.
